

PIONEER DAYS IN DAKOTA AND KANSAS: A DIFFERENCE

This talk was presented at the Swiss (Volhynian) Mennonite Cultural and Historical Association meeting in the Eden Mennonite Church, Moundridge, Kansas, on the 31 October 2002 by James W. Krehbiel.

Beginning on page 10 you will see some information on families who moved after they came to this country. This talk will concern itself principally with those persons who moved from Kansas to South Dakota and from South Dakota to Kansas and I'll attempt to explain what the reasons may have been for the movements of families. This study was initiated by Dr. Harley Stucky who asked me several years ago if I could look through my data base and determine who those persons were who moved from South Dakota to Kansas. My data base isn't set up to do that but I started making a list whenever I found someone who did move. I also included those who moved from Kansas to South Dakota.

This list is confined to those persons who were born in Volhynia and their children. It does not include grandchildren of those born in Russia or great grandchildren. There are probably some persons you may know who moved to South Dakota or from South Dakota to here and who are not listed. That is probably the reason. They are not in my data base so they are not listed. Another reason for the omission of some people from this list is because I have been accumulating the list whenever I happened to run into someone and there are some I just missed.

As you undoubtedly know all 4 congregations had agreed while in Russia to go to the Dakota Territory. The first 3 congregations did so. The Kutusovka-Hopefield congregation decided in New York to go to Kansas instead. 14 families of that congregation went immediately to South Dakota from New York. 3 families came to Kansas, then (within a month) went to South Dakota.

On page 10 is the beginning of the list of persons who moved from Kansas to South Dakota. Included in this list are the 3 families who were members of the Kutusovka congregation in Volhynia who came to this country with that congregation, and came to Kansas, but then moved within 3 to 4 weeks to South Dakota. These were the families of Johann Gering [Ge3.355] and Maria (Graber) Gering [Gr3.824] with 3 children. You will see that family listed on the bottom of page 10. The other 2 families were those of Jacob Riess [Rs1.2] and Karolina (Tesmer) Riess [Ts0] with 6 of their children and Karl Riess [Rs2.25] and Freni (Kaufman) Riess [Ka4.2111] with 3 of their children. Those Riess families you will find listed from the middle of page 11 to the middle of page 12. If we subtract these 18 persons from the total list of those who moved from Kansas to South Dakota we are left with 15 persons who moved there. Nearly all of these 15 persons married someone from South Dakota and moved there to be with their spouse.

There is one individual who merits some comment. She is Freni Schrag [Sg5.74222] listed on page 12 (towards the bottom of the page). Freni was born in South Dakota, had moved with her parents to Menno, Washington in Adams County in Eastern Washington and was living there when Karl Kauffman [Ka5.24232] came from South Dakota. Karl (who Americanized his name to Charles) had an avid interest in nature, he collected artifacts and had studied taxidermy and stuffed many animals. He was invited to Washington to teach a class in the Menno Mennonite Church in which Freni was a member. They were married. Subsequently Karl (or Charles, if you prefer) was asked to come to Bethel College with his collection and establish a museum. This he and Freni did. He was curator of the Kauffman Museum for many years until his death. Freni became curator then and remained so until she married Henry Riess [Rs3.27d] who lived in South Dakota. She gave up her job as curator of the museum and moved to South Dakota to be with her husband.

On page 13 begins the list of persons who moved from South Dakota to Kansas. I have listed here 158 of them. Compare that number with the 33 who moved from Kansas to South Dakota. It needs to be asked why so many persons left Dakota. What conditions prevailed there that prompted the exit? And I should mention that Kansas was not the only destination of persons who left Dakota.

There were 14 families and 4 single persons who went to North Dakota in about 1898 and settled near Starkweather, North Dakota. They were 1 Albrecht family, 1 Gering family, 5 Graber families, 1 Holzworth family (who married a Senner), 2 Schrag families, a Senner family, a Waltner family, 1 Winsky family (who married a Graber) and the 4 single persons were 2 Gerings and 2 Senners. That made a total of 49 persons including the children. In 1904 they moved to Alsen in the same county (that is, Cavalier Co.) and established the Swiss Mennonite Church there. the information was extracted from [ALBo and SwMe] They could not have left South Dakota because of the severe winters. The north border of Cavalier County is the Canadian border. The wife of one of the Grabers was my great aunt (Elisabeth Gering [Ge4.3121] and 1 of the 2 single Gerings was her sister Karolina Gering [Ge4.3126]; the other single Gering was the father of the 2 sisters (Joseph Gering [Ge3.312], my great grandfather).

I found 12 families who moved from South Dakota to Bloomfield, Montana and established the Bethlehem Mennonite Church there in 1911. In that group there was 1 Albrecht family, 3 Graber families, 1 Ortman family, 2 Senner families, a Schrag family, 3 Schwartz families and 1 Zafft (Soft) family. The Soft family and 1 of the Graber families moved to Kansas before moving to Montana. this information was extracted from [BIBo] There were a total of 56 persons in that group.

56 persons from Dakota: (ALBRECHT 1. Jakob Albrecht Ac4.233b ∞ Anna Graber Gr3.858), (GRABERS 1. Peter J Graber Gr4.7511 ∞ Elisabeth Senner Se3.435; 2. In 1882, 5 Schrag families moved from South Dakota to Oregon and established a country church near Dallas, Oregon. There were 2 Schrag families who came later making a total of 7 Schrag families in Oregon. They were joined by a 2 Gering families, 2 Graber families, 1 Kaufman and a Waltner family. After trying to subsist on fairly poor soil near Dallas, Oregon for about 9 years they moved to Lane County, Oregon (near Eugene) and after 9 years of attempting to exist on rather poor soil there they moved to Adams County in eastern Washington. There they established the town of Menno and the Menno Mennonite Church and the town of Schrag, Washington which is about 10 miles southwest of Menno. Included in that Oregon group were 61 persons. this information was extracted from [ScMi and EmOr]

57 persons from Dakota: (SCHRAGS 1. Jacob R Schrag Sg3.746 ∞ Freni R Graber Gr3.825; 2. Daniel J Schrag Sg3.756 ∞ Freni Graber Gr3.773; 3. Jacob Joseph Schrag Sg3.753 ∞ Freni Riess Rs2.29; 4. That makes a total of over 165 persons who left Dakota and settled in North Dakota, Montana and Oregon.

Some of those who left South Dakota left perhaps because of a personal family catastrophe which may have made it difficult to remain.

Prairie fires were a constant threat. Soon after arriving (in the fall of 1874) a prairie fire struck the Karl Preheim [Pr1.4] family homestead. Karl wasn't home and his mother-in-law Elisabeth Graber [Se1.2], his wife Katharina [Gr3.532] and daughter Elisabeth [Pr2.42] were severely burned trying to save the family cattle from the prairie fire. from "Herald of Truth", December 1874, reprinted in [HiCl p. 197] Karl's wife Katharina (Grabers) Preheim [Gr3.532] died shortly after the fire and their daughter Elisabeth Preheim [Pr2.42] died the next year at the age of 18. Karl Preheim [Pr1.4] remarried and he and his second wife moved to Pretty Prairie and later Kingman, Kansas and Karl's mother-in-law survived the burns and was living with them in Pretty Prairie, Kansas. If you turn to page 31, you can see the entry for Karl Preheim [Pr1.4] and his family. He was a charter member of the First Mennonite Church in Pretty Prairie. [PpHi p. 15] Karl's mother-in-law Elisabeth (Sehner) Graber [Se1.2] is found on page 37. She died in 1894 in Pretty Prairie, Kansas.

Several prairie fires burned through the North Church Cemetery also. Arthur Graber writing in the book Looking Back 100 Years says, "One of the biggest prairie fires swept across our cemetery [i.e., the Salem-Zion Cemetery] in the year 1889, burning all the wooden markers. The markers were homemade from a piece of 2 x 12 with name and date engraved. Again in the early nineties several prairie fires swept over the grounds destroying all the new and restored markers." [SzLb p. 37] Section I of the cemetery on the far east end has only a few stone markers which look like they were erected much later. The first 3 rows of section 2 have about 20 grave markers in the approximately 60 grave sites.

Jacob Gering [Ge2.36], his wife Susanna (Krehbiel) Gering [Kr2.41] with their family of 5 children were living about 5 miles east of Marion, Dakota Territory on the banks of the Vermillion River. On the 23rd of July 1878 a big rain upriver caused a flood to come down the river. Their house was destroyed and the mother and 3 children were drowned. Jacob's 2 remaining living children moved to Pretty Prairie and Jacob accompanied them. He died in Pretty Prairie and both children moved to Monroe, Washington. Jacob Gering [Ge2.36] is listed on page 15. His children are listed on page 16 and their Swartz spouses on page 37.

Blizzards also were a problem—2 in particular. The great blizzard of 15 October 1880 made a particularly difficult time for everyone as it was so early in the season that many were totally unprepared for winter. But it was the blizzard on 12 January 1888 that remains the most dominant in the memory of South Dakotans. It was a school day and children were in school when the blizzard hit. 5 boys (John Albrecht [Ac5.23354], 13 years old, Peter Graber [Gr3.847], 17 years old, and John [Ka5.21142], Henry [Ka5.21145], and Elias Kaufman [Ka5.21146], who were 17, 11 and 7 years old respectively) decided to go home through the blizzard. They got lost in the near zero visibility and didn't make it. The parents of Peter Graber (i.e., Peter O Graber [Gr2.84] and Susanna Gering [Ge2.86]) moved to Pretty Prairie, Kansas in 1891. See an entry for them on pages 18 and 19. Especially hard hit was the Johann Kaufman [Ka4.2114] and Anna (Schrag) Kaufman [Sg3.745] family as the three Kaufman boys who died were members of that family. The boys' father Johann died within 2 years of the blizzard. The mother of the 3 boys (Anna (Schrag) Kaufman [Sg3.745]) moved with her remaining 4 children to Moundridge. You can see the listing of this family on page 30 (Anna "Freundliche Bas" Schrag [Sg3.745]). Here in Kansas she married her second cousin Jacob "Schmid" Schrag [Sg3.442]. They had one more child Elias W "Eli" Schrag [Sg4.442b] and there were 7 surviving half children from Jacob's first marriage. That made a family of 12 surviving children.

One other problem for the first 5 years in Dakota was the long distance to go to stores. Yankton was 35 miles south, Sioux Falls was about 35 miles as the crow flies to the north east. The C. M. and St. Paul Railroad was extended through the Childstown area in 1879 which gave employment to many persons and local towns were started along the line which made stores more readily convenient. In Kansas, Halstead was about 13 miles south of Hopefield as the crow flies; McPherson was only about 11 miles north.

In order to get some sort of picture of conditions in the early years and to contrast what it was like in Dakota Territory compared to Kansas, I'll go back to the time of the emigration and give a picture of those conditions.

The first ship docked in New York on 6 May 1874. It had 4 Ortman families who went to McCook Co., Dakota Territory. That is in the next tier of counties north of Turner and Hutchinson Counties. Freeman is in Hutchinson Co. and the North and South Mennonite Churches are in Turner Co.

The second ship with about ½ of the Zahoriz congregation and led by Andreas Schrag docked 12 days later in New York (18 May 1874). Andreas Schrag had been the person in the group who came to America the year before to investigate land in America to determine good places to settle. The train carried the portion of the congregation to Yankton, Dakota Territory where they disembarked. Yankton is on the north side of the Missouri River where the river forms the border between Nebraska and the Dakota Territory. Daniel Unruh had settled in Childstown Township, Turner County, Dakota territory the year before and he and Andreas Schrag had communicated. It was Daniel Unruh who convinced Andreas Schrag to settle there in Turner County instead of the Red River Valley area far to the north east. This first church group left Yankton for Turner County about 35 miles north and established homesteads there. This would have been in the first part of June. That area had very little settlement before this. According to contemporary accounts there was nothing but a solid sea of waving grass stretching to the horizon. In contrast, Mound and Turkey Creek townships in McPherson County, Kansas had quite a few settlers nearly all from eastern states whom our people called the “English”.

The third ship docked 22 July 1874 with the second ½ of the Zahoriz Congregation. By the time they got to Yankton it was the end of July or the first of August. There wasn't much of the year left to plant gardens and perform the very difficult task of breaking sod, working the ground, and planting winter wheat and winter rye. But first, before they could worry about crops, these families had to provide shelter for themselves. Most lived in sod houses partially dug down into the earth with walls built up of sod bricks. Planks were laid over the top of the walls for a roof and another layer of sod bricks laid on the roof planks.

The next ship (containing 2 congregations and by far the largest group of those who went to the Dakota Territory) arrived in New York 24 August 1874. By the time they got to Yankton it was probably the first week of September. The summer was far advanced. Most decided not to attempt to move north but rather stayed near Yankton. There most of them built sod houses east and northeast of the town. This arrival late in the year created a problem because they missed fall planting entirely. Even those who did venture north and found homesteads in Turner County and built housing did not have time for fall planting. Thus a full year of food was lost.

Picture the typical farm of our ancestors in the 1870s and 1880s. It consisted primarily of subsistence farming. The food for the year was grown. Just a few supplies, e.g., sugar, pepper, coffee, cloth to be made into clothing, etc., was purchased at a store. Nearly everything was grown on the farm. Here is a Kansas State census report from an 1895 Swiss Volhynian family living in this area of McPherson County. This was a Stucky family and consisted of a husband and wife and 6 children. The farm was 240 acres—a modest farm of the time. You can suppose they started with an original 160 acre homestead plus an additional 80 acres (in 21 years the farm had expanded by an 80). The number of acres in wheat reported in this year of 1895 was 85 acres with 100 bushels of wheat still on hand at the time of the census; 10 acres were planted to rye; corn 45; barley 4; oats 30; sorghum 5; millet 3; kaffir corn 4; alfalfa 7; $20 worth of poultry and eggs were sold in that year; 100 pounds of cheese were made that year; ½ acre was planted to potatoes. They had 8 horses; 6 milk cows, 5 hogs. There were 70 bearing apple trees; 6 pear trees; 6 plum trees; and 24 cherry trees. Of trees too young to bear yet there were 6 apple, 6 pear and 25 peach. Contrast to this (if you will) to a modern farm of today where the husband might say to the wife “I'm going to take a load of wheat to town” and she might respond, “Stop at the grocery store and bring a dozen eggs, a loaf of bread, some frozen vegetables for supper tonight and I could use a sack of flour to make cake for the guests tomorrow night”. How things have changed! Not mentioned in the 1895 census was anything about a garden other than that ½ acre that was planted to potatoes. You can imagine the number of jars of vegetables which were preserved. There was 1 other thing listed that definitely separates the 1880s from today. 20 gallons of wine were reportedly made that year by that family. [\[StBe pp. 9-10\]](#)

Think of this: these families in the Dakota Territory lost one year's production of food. F. C. Ortman writes in the book Looking Back 100 Years, “Of these last people and many who came in September many stayed in and near Yankton in rented houses and farms, because the majority were destitute and looked for work wherever there was an opportunity for fifty cents a day or often only for food.” [\[KaPr p. 55\]](#) An article in the “Mennoniten Friedenbote” in the late fall of 1874 states, “In and around Yankton there are in all between 80 and 90 families which must be assisted to keep them from suffering.” [reprinted in HiCl p 197] F. C. Ortman states, “...Land had to be broken for most of them who could take land or had taken land... . Many did not have enough to pay the fourteen-dollar fee for signing [for a homestead]" [KaPr p 55] Writing in Looking Back 100 Years, Rev. A. P. Waltner says of that first year, "When these people settled here, they found a wide expanse of unsettled prairie, but they came too late to break sod for sowing grain that year, so they busied themselves with building sod-houses, making wells, breaking sod for the next year, and getting ready for winter. ...A large number of these families were poor—some very poor." [SzLb p. 13] These 80 or 90 families are not yet living on their land. For those who arrived at the beginning of September they would have harvested the 1873-74 winter grain crop in Volhynia in early summer of 1874 but could not bring it to America. They would have had to sell it and hope the cash realized would be enough to purchase grain and vegetables in America. Quote, "The Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, writes to the Governor of Dakota: 'I have ordered to your address, per mail, for distribution to the sufferers [sic]...300 packages of vegetable seeds, each package containing 15 kinds—each family to have not more than one package of 15.'" ["Herald of Truth", reprinted in HiCl p. 230] These packages consisted of oats, sugar beets and turnip seeds among other types of vegetables. ["Herald of Truth", reprinted in HiCl p. 230]

Contrast this with Kansas. The last of the Dakota bound congregations docked in New York on the 24th of August. One week later (on the 31st of August) the City of Richmond docked with the Kutusovka Congregation. The Kutusovka Congregation decided in New York to settle in Kansas rather than the Dakota Territory. There were 14 families who immediately left the congregation and departed for Yankton, Dakota Territory. The Kutusovka Congregation spent 3 days in Castle Garden in New York and probably 6-7 days on the train ride. They switched trains in Cleveland and traveled straight to St. Joseph, Missouri, disembarked and crossed the Missouri River on a ferry, then were bussed (imagine a horse drawn bus) to Atchison where they boarded the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe to Peabody, Kansas. KaPr p. 37, [StSo p. 131] They probably arrived in Peabody about the 9th or 10th of September. Agents of the Santa Fe then escorted the heads of the families from Peabody to McPherson County where they looked over available land. According to one report the railroad neglected to tell them of government homesteads which were available and instead showed them only Santa Fe owned land (they owned every other section of land in a checker board arrangement with the government owning the in between sections). As mentioned before much of the land was already settled by "English" settlers. The arrangements for purchasing land consisted of a group of usually 4 heads of family (usually related to each other) who got together and decided to settle one section (one quarter apiece). A drawing was held and one person from each group drew a number out of a "hat". That number represented the legal description of that section in the township. [KaPr p. 38]

Some of the emigrants decided to buy land which had already been settled. P. R. Kaufman describes such an arrangement in his book Our People and their History where his family (father, mother, sister, brother and he) lived with his aunt and husband (his father's sister Barbara (Kaufman) Voran [Ka3.243] and her husband Andreas Voran [Vn1.4]). Apparently Andreas Voran had quite a bit of money as he purchased an already established farm complete with a two story house, with all the farm machinery, cattle and crops thrown in. [KaPr p. 94] My great grandfather Johann C Stucky [St4.6233] purchased a quarter from the "English" just 1 mile north and a ½ mile east of where Moundridge would be. His wife was Freni Voran [Vn2.52]. Their holdings were not so fancy at that of Andreas Voran [Vn1.4] mentioned before. Their farm house consisted of just a shack but a well had been dug. [StSo 144] Nevertheless those who bought already existing farms purchased a house to live in, perhaps a well, as well as broken sod and fields often ready for working and planting. Most contained the remnants of this years crops. The story of Johann Stucky [St4.6233] and Freni (Vorán) Stucky [St4.6233] and their experiences in Kansas can be read in Chapter 14 of Solomon Stucky's book The Heritage of the Swiss Volhynian Mennonites.

There is another important advantage here in Kansas. The Santa Fe Railroad built an immigrant house to house those who were not purchasing from the "English". Thus no time was lost building shelters for the winter or drilling wells as was happening in the Dakota Territory.

After the places to live were selected in McPherson County the heads of household went back to Peabody to their families. Some purchased wagons and teams of oxen or horses and tools and left immediately west from Peabody for McPherson County. Others boarded the train for Halstead where they purchased necessities and went north to McPherson County. Most of these from Peabody and Halstead met southeast of where Moundridge would be. A Rupp family was living there. [KaPr p. 39] And this is important for it marks another great difference between Kansas and the Dakota Territory.

The heads of the Kansas Volhynian Mennonites had the foresight to rent a quarter section of land which had already been broken and farmed. This was one mile south and either 3 or 4 miles east of Moundridge. Each family who didn't have land ready for quick planting was given 8-10 acres of this land to put into winter crops. A large camp was established while these heads of households prepared the ground, scattered the seed and harrowed it. Another piece of land (perhaps also a quarter section, although I have not been able to confirm this acreage) was rented 3 miles south of Moundridge and used in the same manner for others not included in that first quarter section of land. [KaPr pp. 39, 91] , In these rented farms, there is some indication that this ground was worked communally and the production next summer was divided evenly among the families. In other words it was not divided into 10 acre plots with each family assigned a plot. There is an important point to be made here. All of the Swiss Volhynian families in Kansas planted some winter crops in the fall of 1874. There was very little planted in the Dakota Territory. There probably were very few families in Kansas who did not have money to buy grain seed. Those who didn't have the money for an initial start in farming didn't get to Kansas. 2 families of the Kutusovka Congregation were back in Pennsylvania, several in Ohio, one in Indiana and 3 or 4 in Illinois. My great grandfather Johann Krehbiel [Kr2.32] and his wife Anna (Stucky) Krehbiel [St3.646] were still living in the town of Hopedale, Illinois as late as 1880 (6 years after arriving in America). They are there in the 1880 federal census where my great grandfather's occupation was listed as "laborer". At Moundridge, the congregation in the spring of 1875 also rented 20 acres of broken land and planted them with potatoes and other vegetables. Presumably this additional 20 acres was near the Immigration House and used by the families living there. An immigrant house was not built in Yankton until the year of 1875. In the Press and Dakotian of 1875 it is stated, "A building is to be constructed in or near Yankton without delay to give temporary accommodation to the Russian immigrants who may arrive during the present winter, and also for those who may come next season or at any time hereafter". ["Herald of Truth", reprinted in HiCl p. 212] Too late for our people.

1874 in Kansas was a very bleak year. I am talking about 1874 before our ancestors arrived. It was a drought year and the crops were badly stunted. Then in the second week of August (about the 12th) a swarm of locusts—a grasshopper plague descended on the landscape. ["Herald of Truth", reprinted in HiCl pp. 201, 204] There are many references to it in newspaper stories in 1874 and in the years after where it was referred to as the 1874 grasshopper plague. Apparently it was widespread. One account says they swarmed all over the Arkansas River and Cottonwood River valleys. Everything green was devoured. One account states there was not a green stem left anywhere. Many of the already established “English” were fed up and ready to pull up stakes and head back east. As a result land prices were depressed somewhat here in Kansas when our people arrived.

To review, there are some distinct advantages in Kansas that did not exist in the Dakota Territory. 1) an immigrant house was built so the immigrants did not have to spend time building homes which was necessary in South Dakota; 2) there was an opportunity to plant winter grain crops, a program in which apparently every Swiss Volhynian family in Kansas participated; 3) the Dakota Territory was much more of a frontier; fewer “English” families existed.

In December of 1874 it is written, “Repeated reports have been received of the great want of many of our Russian brethren in the west; but especially from Yankton, Dakota. ...inasmuch as winter is at hand and they have no labor to earn anything wherewith to buy bread, unless something is done for them they must suffer with hunger. The Committee [i.e., a Mennonite Committee from the eastern United States] has therefore made arrangements that the necessary provisions for the Winter shall be supplied. To carry out this plan they bought 1000 sacks of flour in Yankton and a committee was appointed to distribute them to those who are really in need. In and around Yankton there are in all between 80 and 90 families which must be assisted to keep them from suffering.” [from “Herald of Truth”, December 1874, reprinted in HiCl p. 197] From a report of the men who visited there to see about the conditions it is stated, “The greater number live in sod houses which they erected. ...At nearly every place we came to we were surrounded by the brethren, who solicited us to help them. They say the winter will soon set in; they can obtain no labor to earn anything, and have no bread for themselves and their children. They live very plainly and appear to be well contented when they have bread and coffee. Their greatest solicitation is for bread.” [from “Mennoniten Friedenhof”, reprinted in HiCl p. 197]

Now let’s talk about the next year—1875.

The year of 1875 was a good one for Kansas. The Herald of Truth, June 1875 reports that the crops in Kansas promise well so far. The wheat looks fine; corn, oats, barley and other cereals all are in a fine condition. The weather is pleasant and there is plenty of rain. The grasshoppers have made their appearance in some places, but have done no damage worth speaking. The localities where our Russian friends have located are as yet almost entirely free from this plague, and the settlers seem to be encouraged, and in good hopes. [reprinted in HiCl page 238] There is an equally “high hope” report later in Kansas. In the Herald of Truth of August 1875 it is stated, “Wheat harvest in Kansas, Nebraska and Dakota is said to be very good. Also corn and oats, barley and other grains with all kinds of vegetables are promising well.” [reprinted in HiCl page 256] Note that it was reported that there were good crops in Dakota in the summer of 1875 as well as Kansas. The problem is that very little in the way of crops was planted in Dakota.

The next year was different in Dakota. In the Herald of Truth of September 1876 it is stated, “In Southern Dakota, it is said, considerable damage has been done to the wheat and other grains by the grasshoppers. The gardens have been almost totally ruined by these insects. Our Russian brethren there had every prospect of a fine crop, but by this misfortune, many no doubt, will have to live very sparingly another year. So writes Bro. Andreas Schraag from Childstown, near Yankton.” [“Herald of Truth”, September 1876, reprinted in HiCl p. 303] J. D. Graber, remembering that year, says, “The grasshopper plague was also an experience to be remembered, as they came swarming over, high in the sky. Sometimes they were so numerous they dimmed the sun, and when they settled down to feed, it took only a few hours and the gardens, grain fields, trees and even small twigs were stripped bare.” [SzLb pp. 28-29] In the next February (1877) issue of the Herald of Truth there is an account of “The Brethren, Andreas Schrag and Joseph Graber, from Childstown, Dakota, are on a visit among the Churches [in the east] for assistance for their Church. On account of the destruction of their crops, by the grasshoppers, many families have nothing to subsist on of their own, and unless help is obtained some will have to suffer. They really need help to sustain life.” [“Herald of Truth, February 1877, reprinted in HiCl p. 315] $972.55 was raised to help them. Rev. A. P. Waltner writes, “In 1876 they found that a number of families were again without any food and seed whatsoever. Again they faced starvation. The cause: Not much sod broken yet, because they lacked ox and horse-power; and the little that was sown in 1875 was most destroyed by grasshoppers and everything was devoured by these hungry pests in 1876.” [SzLb pp. 13-14] F. C. Ortman writing in P. R. Kaufman’s book Our People and Their History says of the condition in the Dakotas at this time, “In order to face the ...need..., the deputies Andreas Schrag and Pastor Joseph Graber were sent to the eastern states of Ohio, Indiana, and Pennsylvania in order to get a loan of Money for the most needy. They were successful in getting a sum of $7,400.00 at six percent interest. ...This sum was divided among the most needy.” [KaPr p. 56]

In 1883 a party of 3 men went to southern Reno County, Kansas to see about a place to settle. It was reported in “The Reformer” in March 1884 that, “The Mennonites in Kansas, Dakota, Minnesota and Galacia, are about to form a settlement in Reno County, where there is still plenty of good land at low prices. A number have already purchased there and others are about to do likewise. ...Some of the Russian Mennonites that settled in Dakota in 1873 to 1878 have determined to leave this territory and settle in Kansas. A Committee of the prominent men in Dakota recently visited colonies of their brethren in the counties of Marion, Harvey, Butler, Reno and McPherson.” [from “Herald of Truth”, reprinted in HiCl p. 414] And from the McPherson Republican, 31 January 1884, “On the 25th last about forty Mennonites arrived at Atchison on their way to Harvey county. They are from Dakota, where they have been living for the past nine years, but have concluded to locate in a warmer climate.” [from “Herald of Truth”, reprinted in HiCl p 416] This group from Dakota selected 10 sections in Albion township in Reno County. The price per acre was $6.00 an acre for raw land and $7.50 for fenced land. [PpHi pp. 7, 14] Some also bought pre-existing farms. There were 24 families and 8 single persons (88 persons in all) who were charter members of the church which was founded 10 October 1884 in the home of Andrew Schwartz [Sw2.17] which was 3 miles east of the present town of Pretty Prairie, Kansas. Counting the children, there were 123 persons who moved there that year of 1884 (115 were from the Dakota Territory and 8 were from the Moundridge area). According to the book A History of the First Mennonite church: Pretty Prairie, Kansas there were an additional 43 families who moved to that area in the next 3 years, most from Dakota. And the families continued to move to Pretty Prairie. In 1918 my maternal grandparents Andreas Stucky [St5.62336] and his wife Emilia (Gering) Stucky [Ge4.3128] (she was from South Dakota) moved from Moundridge to Pretty Prairie with their 4 children. You can see her entry on page 17.

J Kaufman at Worth, CA. Jacob is not on the ship lists (SIHo #185-190, HaDa 18 or WaGa #968-973) with his wife and children. Nevertheless, they immigrated to America in 1874 and settled at Free., SD. They then moved to KS. in 1878. In ChBo 19-10-16 it is stated that they moved to PPr., KS. in 1878. That is unlikely as there was no Mennonite settlement at PPr., until 1883. It is more likely that Jacob died at Mdge. His burial site could not be found. (see also Rs2.24)

Children:

Ka4.2345 Peter Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3345], * 15 Dec. 1861, + 28 Mar. 1899, ¶ in CePp., ∞ 15 June 1884 Elisabeth Graber Gr3.776 (her I), * 12 Nov. 1862, † 2 Apr. 1876 in Hoff., + 9:45am 27 Jan. 1948 in King., KS. Memorial Hospital. Peter immigrated to America in 1874 and settled in SD. He moved to KS. in 1884 where he met and married Elisabeth. They lived at PPr., KS.

Ka4.2347 Joseph J Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3347], * 18 Dec. 1869, † 15 July 1883 in SaZi., + 25 Jan. 1954 of a heart attack, ∞ 22 May 1904 Helena "Lena" Voth Vc1.6, * 16 Mar. 1885, † 8 Oct. 1899 in Eden., + 20 May 1989. Joseph moved with his parents from SD. to PPr., KS. in 1878. In 1914 Joseph and Helen moved to Porterville, CA. where he planted and farmed an orange grove. When the Mennonite Church there was abandoned they joined the Evangelical Church.

Ka4.2349 Karolina {Caroline} Kaufman, * 6 Oct., 1869, † 19 Dec. 1886 in FMPPr. Karolina remained single. She lived in Porterville, CA. There is some confusion with the birth date of Karolina. In GrAr 241 her birth is listed as 6 Oct. 1869 (the same as Katharina Ka4.2348 [formerly Ka4.3348]). It is presumed in this study that Karolina and Katharina Ka4.2348 are twins. It is likely that Jacob P Kaufman and Magdalena Riess (Karolina's parents) moved from Kutu., Rus. to Horo., Rus. in the early 1870s which may make the family register in EdKu incomplete or inaccurate and may explain why Karolina is omitted in EdKu. The family register is in EdKu. but the family immigrated to America with the Horo. Congregation. The ship list gives the age of Karolina as 2 in 1874. If true she is about the same age as her brother Ka4.234a [formerly Ka4.334a] whose birth is recorded in EdKu 74.

Ka4.234b Elisabeth Kaufman [formerly Ka4.334a], * 7 Jan. 1875 in Hutch. Co., SD., † 1 Sep. 1889 in FMPPr., ∞ Heinrich {Henry} J Voth Vc1.1, * 14 Sep. 1878. Elisabeth and Heinrich lived at Castleton, KS.

Ka4.2122 Freni Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3122], * 26 Jan. 1841 in Horo., Rus., † 22 Apr. 1856 in Edu., + 19 Nov. 1925 in the home of her son at PPr., KS., ¶ 21 Nov. in CePp., ∞ 25 Dec. 1859 Daniel Krehbiel Kr2.36 [formerly Kr2.34], * 15 Jan. 1838, † 5 Apr. 1853 in Edu., + 28 Aug. 1902 at PPr., KS., ¶ 30 Aug. in CePp. Freni and Daniel Krehbiel immigrated to America in 1874 and settled near Marion, SD. In 1885 they moved to 7 miles east of PPr, KS. where they spent the rest of their lives. (see also Kr2.36)

Ka4.2321 Maria {Marie} Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3321], * 27 June 1844, † 17 May 1862 in Kutu., + 5 Nov. 1899 at Mdge., KS., ¶ 6 Nov. in CeHf., ∞ before 1874 Jacob D Schrag Sg2.85 (his II), * 8 Oct. 1818, + 27 Nov. 1895 at Free., SD. Maria and Jacob immigrated to America in 1874 and settled in SD. After the death of Jacob, Maria moved to Mdge., KS. where she lived with her sister Katharina Kaufman Sehner Ka4.2327 [formerly Ka4.3327]. After the Sehner's left Mdge., KS., she lived with her sister Barbara Kaufman Strauss Ka4.2322 [formerly Ka4.3322].

Ka4.2322 Barbara Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3322], * 12 July 1846 in Wald., Rus., † in Wald. by Elder Johann Schrag, + 19 June 1930 at Mdge., KS. of paralysis, ¶ in CeHf., ∞ (I) 7 Nov. 1869 Jacob A (or) P Kaufman Ka4.2115 [formerly Ka4.3115], * 19 Jan. 1848, † 24 Mar. 1863 in Horo., + 1876 in SD., ¶ in CeSz., ∞ (II) 14 May 1886 Jacob Strauss Ss2.13 (his II), * 7 Jan. 1838 in Horo., Rus., † 12 Apr. 1853 in Horo., + evening 13 Aug. 1914 in Halstead Hospital, KS. of acute obstruction of the bowels, ¶ in CeHf. Several years after they married in Wald., Rus. Barbara and Jacob Kaufman moved to Horo., Rus. After the emigration to America in 1874 they lived at Free., SD. In 1884 (after her first husband Jacob Kaufman died) Barbara Kaufman and her son moved from SD. to KS. where she lived with her sister Elisabeth Stucky Ka4.2324 [formerly Ka4.3324] until her second marriage. Barbara and Jacob Strauss lived at Mdge., KS.

Child of Barbara and Jacob Kaufman Ka4.2115 [formerly Ka4.3115]:

Ka5.21151 Peter J "Piepser" Kaufman [formerly Ka5.31152], * 27 Feb. 1871, † 21 Nov. 1886 in Hoff., + 20 Mar. 1948 in Newton, KS. of abdominal hemorrhage, ¶ in CeEd., ∞ (I) 25 Apr. 1893 Anna Stucky St5.62832 in Hoff., * 18 Nov. 1875, † 27 Oct. 1889 in Hoff., + 13 July 1894 of consumption, ∞ (II) 23 Aug. 1895 Anna Gering {Goering} Ge3.849 in Hoff., * 12 Jan. 1877, + 27 Apr. 1955, ¶ in CeEd. Peter came to America in 1874 and settled in SD. with his parents. In 1884 he moved with his mother to Mdge., KS. He transferred membership from Hoff. to Eden. after the latter was organized. Peter Kaufman was a farmer until his retirement in 1934 when Peter and wife Anna Gering moved to Mdge., KS.

Ka4.2327 Katharina Kaufman [formerly Ka4.3327], * 29 Aug. 1858, + 6 Apr. 1913, ∞ 28 Dec. 1882 Christian Sehner Se2.4c, * 13 Dec. 1860, † 6 Apr. 1879 in SaZi., + 7 Aug. 1951. Christian and Katharina moved from SD. to KS. He was a school teacher and a drayman. They lived at Mdge., KS. for some years on a farm and then in town. They then moved to MT. where some children married. They moved to MD. for a short time and then to WA. Katharina may have died before the move to WA. as she is not listed in MnBo. as a church member. (see also Se2.4c)

Ka5.21121 Peter C Kaufman [formerly Ka5.31121], * 4 Nov. 1861 in Horo., Rus., † 1876 by Elder Johann Schrag in SD., + morning 27 Sep. 1937 in the Anthony, KS. - Salem = Salem Mennonite Church, Freeman, South Dakota (South Church). The church is 4 miles east and 2 miles south of Freeman, South Dakota. The decision to split from the Salem-Zion (North Church) was in 1907 with the dedication of the church structure 24 May 1908.
- SaZi = Salem-Zion Mennonite Church, Freeman, South Dakota (North Church). The church is 4 miles east of Freeman, South Dakota. This designation is used for the same continuous church (the North Church) regardless of the dates. Earlier it was called the Salem Mennonite Church with another church (Zion Mennonite Church) existing just a few miles away. This early Salem Church was made up largely from the Horodische Congregation in Russia. The decision to merge the two congregations with the name of Salem-Zion Church was made in 1894 (services, however, continued in both churches) with the merger eventually taking place when a storm destroyed the Zion structure in 1902.
- SMAl = Swiss Mennonite Church, Alsen, North Dakota, organized in 1904 when an earlier congregation moved from near Starkweather, North Dakota to Alsen. The congregation at Starkweather was formed in c.1899 largely by Swiss Volhynian Mennonites.
